THE BEST PARTY OF THE YEAR IS GOING HI-TECH
BY SUE CONTE, CMS EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

We listened to your feedback from last year and we are working to make this year’s Holiday Auction better than ever! The event will be held at the Florida State University Center Club Ballroom which gives us 3,000 square feet more space than we had last year – along with more seating, better acoustics and separation between the Silent and Live Auctions. Thanks to a sponsorship from EMTeLink (www.emtelink.com), the Silent Auction will feature electronic bidding on mobile bidding devices – with fun and easy features. Watch for our announcements allowing you to preview auction items and begin bidding on-line! In addition, several of this year’s scholarship recipients have volunteered to help with logistics and with the Live Auction.

The Holiday Auction is your opportunity to support the charitable efforts of your CMS Foundation. These include sponsorships for medical students who are burdened with the enormous cost of medical school. A recent recipient said it best in a note: “After receiving this award, I feel as though the financial burden has become a little lighter and a little more bearable. I will use this award as additional motivation to work hard and become the best doctor I can be.” Proceeds from the Auction also go to support the We Care Network and other efforts promoting access to care in our community.

We need your help to make this a successful fundraiser. Please consider donating an item. All items, large or small, are welcome. We are hoping for a wide variety of items this year.

There are other ways to help with the Holiday Auction, too!

1. PLAN TO ATTEND! Mark the Holiday Auction on your calendar. We want everyone to attend. The Auction is December 5th at 6:30 pm at the new location – University Center Club at FSU (1 Champions Way – Doak Campbell Stadium). The entrance donation is $100 per couple.

2. BE AN INDIVIDUAL SPONSOR. Write a check for $100 or more to help with the Auction. We will publish the names of our individual sponsors in our marketing materials.

If you have donations, questions, or an idea for an item, please call the CMS office at (850) 877-9018 or email Rosalie at rcarlin@capmed.org, Shannon at sboyle@capmed.org, or Sue at sconte@capmed.org.

HIPAA/SECURITY RISK ASSESSMENT
Speaker: Larry Allen, Director of IT Services, The Center for the Advancement of Health IT

What are your options for conducting a Security Risk Assessment (SRA), the importance of implementing security updates, and correcting security deficiencies as part of a comprehensive risk management process? Actively safeguarding patient health information, meeting HIPAA compliance and Meaningful Use requirements, and ensuring an audit-ready status; healthcare providers across our network are rapidly increasing and benefiting from their use of Electronic Health Records (EHRs). We will review the January HIPAA Final Omnibus Rule and why SRA’s are important. Join us as we share from our experiences with collaborative SRA engagements with your healthcare colleagues, including budgetary approaches, identifying common risks, and utilizations of policy templates. Learn how your practice can have a Security Risk Assessment comfortably and affordably.

BYLAWS CHANGE NOTICE

The Board of Governors has reviewed the CMS Bylaws. Currently, there are seven (7) standing committees required, with chairs appointed each year by the President:

1. Continuing Medical Education
2. Physician/Patient Relations
3. Public Information
4. Legislative Affairs
5. Membership
6. Publications
7. Physician Recovery Network

All other committees will be appointed by the President and approved by the Board of Governors.

Membership associations across the country are streamlining their organizations to meet the more immediate and changing needs of their membership. Since four of the committees named in our Bylaws are generally inactive, the Board is recommending that the Bylaws be updated to retain the following three as required standing Committees:

1. Continuing Medical Education
2. Membership
3. Publications

The Board further recommends the following change:

1. The Physician/Patient Relations, Public Information, Legislative Affairs, Physician Recovery Network and all other committees will be appointed by the President and approved by the Board of Governors as needed for a specified project or time-period as determined by the Board.

These changes will be voted on in the November general membership meeting. If any CMS member wishes to view the current Bylaws and the wording changes before then, please contact Sue Conte at sconte@capmed.org or 877-9018.

MANAGING EDITOR’S NOTE: The Capital Medical Society is working on producing the first-ever pictorial directory of CMS members. We have contracted with E&M Consulting, Inc. to produce the directory – and they will be selling advertising to cover the cost. If you are interested in advertising in the directory, please see the flyer on the next page. This directory will have your contact information and photo. If you have a recent, high quality head-shot photo, please send it to Shannon Boyle at sboyle@capmed.org. We think this directory will become an indispensable tool for physicians and their staff.

THE ISN’T OF IZ
By Charles Moore, M.D.

I mean, of course, by “Iz” that very “Is” made famous by President Clinton when once he was. As a good-old-boy-Rhodes-scholar-President, with such a powerful woman-wife so stalwartly at his side, no matter whom or what, was he not the veritable Philosopher-King that Plato yearned we should have? After all, no philosopher has ever asked a richer question than “what is ‘is?’” But prompted now by his example, let me presume to refine more explicitly the definition of “is” to include, as Mr. Clinton so carefully did not, the isn’t that is such a big part of “is.” We thus arrive at the more specific definition of “Iz,” which is, ipso facto, “the isn’t of ‘is’, the isn’t that is embedded and lurking in whatever we think ‘is’ is.” I think you’ve got it, surely.

But I am way ahead of myself.

Thank goodness, after all, that what we sometimes think is, isn’t. For example, we had gone to see a film one evening, and emerged into the impenetrable darkness of a moonless night. We got in the car, my old Explorer. I turned on the engine. I looked behind as best my neck will turn, and glanced into the mystery of the rear view mirrors. Nothing. Pitch black. I put the car into gear and backed up, expecting nothing, but instead almost immediately felt what was a very soft, noiseless thump. I put on the brakes, and grew pale.

“My dear,” I whispered, “I think I have just run over a small child.”

We got out, and went to look for the small child, hoping we might apologize for its death and destruction. Instead, we found I had ever so softly backed into a tiny, black, invisible automobile containing an FSU student. I had lightly dented the door on the passenger side of his car. I was, to put it honestly enough, thrilled it had not been a “small child” after all. The “is” wasn’t. To make a long story short, I said I would have his car fixed immediately, which I did out of pocket ($600.00 or so, for who is it who wants to confess such an accident to their insurance company), and took the FSU student out to lunch. I learned his life story and, as a sort of crowning glory, was informed by him that two weeks after his door had been replaced he had utterly totaled the car in some minor accident. So much for the dent door that was, and then suddenly wasn’t.

It was a delightful luncheon, and in a small way demonstrated to me the point above alluded to, namely that what we often think is, isn’t. We physicians, of course, count on statistics, basically calculated within a complex formula that states “if for the most part X happens when we perform Y modulated by the Z factor of our own expertise and experience divided by the variables of our mood at a given moment, factoring in, naturally, wind speed and the ambient temperature index, we have a 93% chance of obtaining 83% of a cure.” We are more sophisticated in our capacity to render these equations given our evidence based studies, but in essence it is exactly the same thing as was reported in the Ebers Papyrus back in 1550 B.C. Then the Egyptian physician would, having done his own sums, say, “this is a case I will take (or not).”

Who really knows what is to be the outcome of anything? In my own bit of experience the worst “case” I ever had involved a superficial injury to a child, requiring only a few stitches, who six hours afterwards died. And then there was the lady on whom I performed a relatively straightforward bit of out-patient facial surgery, whose husband called me in the middle of the night to say he thought she might be dead. I raced to her home with 911 at my heels and found, indeed, that she was. A ruptured cerebral aneurysm no one knew she had possessed. After such experiences one wonders, for a little while, just how much faith you can put in statistics. They are a good example of what is that isn’t.

By which introduction I arrive at (yes, bear up!) “The Affordable Health Care Act,” It is certainly an “Is,” passed by some miracle by both houses of Congress, and beyond that given the weighty imprimatur of our Supreme Court. Far be it from me to analyze our nation’s fragile, even brittle ability to make this ponderous scheme work, or for that matter even to get everyone actually insured. At two thousand and whatever more pages, it is a document that certainly IS. It seems, however, to be burdened by a great deal of “isn’t,” at least according to those who believe they know what is. The screeching it has prompted is, of course, its own “is,” and has rendered our government itself, as I write this, crippled, aside from the other issue of our “debt ceiling.” Not to pontificate, and do forgive the non sequitur, but It is as though we, who have been granted so much as a nation, suddenly cannot bear ourselves, and have decided to put a gun to our Federal head.

Look, I am no great student of history, and less of the history of history, Toynbee, Macaulay, Gibbon and that lot, who have so brilliantly attempted to describe the means by which nations rise and fall, the means by which we “march” forward into the future. Being thus poorly informed, I am perfectly happy to announce my own theory, which is that no one, or nation, ever “marches” into any future, banners flying, but instead staggers into it, ad hoc, willy-nilly, buoyed up only by hope, which, as Emily Dickinson put it, “is a thing with feathers.” Visionaries, Religions, and Philosopher-Kings may project their certainties upon us, preaching their versions of “is” that become “isms,” and none of which will come to pass because of the contradictions that lie lurking within every ideal. Even without being an historian one can think of your own hundreds more while idly watching clouds):

Brutus thought that by killing Caesar the Republic would be restored, but instead got a train of Emperors among whom was Caligula; the great Roman Empire, all powerful and reasonably content with its merry variety of Gods was ultimately overthrown by a small sect of uncompromising people, who did not want to pay taxes; Columbus, who set bravely forth for the Spice Islands and bumped into a whole continent, leading from thence to an extraordinary revision of the current world view, aside from some genocide; the French Revolution, determined on “Liberty, Equality, and Fraternity,” but ending up by cutting off the heads of its more enlightened citizenry, including physicians, and releasing Napoleon onto Europe; the 1914 shooting of the Archduke in Sarajevo, an innocent (relatively speaking) little bullet that led to four years of slaughter, followed by a world of bitterness and, of course, Hitler; not to forget the Russian Revolution, preaching that the workers of the world could unite and march into the future, their flags waving, but instead resulted in even more slaughter than Hitler contrived. And so on. Compared to all that, our present congressional impasse is slim pickin’s, but, to give them credit where credit is due, they have brought us, so say those who know what “is” is, to the pathetic brink of what no Congress has ever broached before.

We live in the very midst of a “Gordian Knot,” an Iz we will never untangle, for who can certainly know what is or isn’t, was or wasn’t, or what could be. As physicians, who among us has ever predicted with perfect accuracy the outcome of our every intervention. At least, by the time you read this we will know if our government is functioning once again, more or less, for a while, and so, hope and feathers flying, stagger into the next future.

Hurrah! Good luck! CMS

SPEAKER FOR THE EVENING, MR. JESSE SUBER.

SPEAKER FOR THE EVENING, DR. SCOTT SELLINGER.
THE CMS WE CARE NETWORK IS NOW A CERTIFIED UNITED WAY AGENCY.

We encourage our physicians and offices to consider conducting a United Way Campaign this year.

Your donations will make a difference.
We relentlessly defend, protect, and reward the practice of good medicine.

Why choose between national resources and local clout?

In Florida, The Doctors Company protects its members with both.

With 73,000 member physicians nationwide, we constantly monitor emerging trends and quickly respond with innovative solutions, like incorporating coverage for privacy breach and Medicare reviews into our core medical liability coverage.

Our nearly 14,700 Florida members also benefit from the significant local clout provided by long-standing relationships with the state’s leading attorneys and expert witnesses, plus litigation training tailored to Florida’s legal environment.

This uncompromising approach, combined with our Tribute® Plan that has already earmarked over $34 million to Florida physicians, has made us the nation’s largest physician-owned medical malpractice insurer.

To learn more, call our Jacksonville office at (800) 741-3742 or visit www.thedoctors.com.

We relentlessly defend, protect, and reward the practice of good medicine.

Tribute Plan projections are not a forecast of future events or a guarantee of future balance amounts. For additional details, see www.thedoctors.com/tribute.
